Complainant contends that:

- (1) The District failed to provide her with access to the student's educational records, including health and counseling records, as required by Education Law § 2-d;
- (2) The District disclosed PII concerning the student to third-party service providers without consent; and
- (3) The District disclosed PII concerning the student, without consent, to employees who did not have a reason to know the PII.

Complainant further contends that the alleged unauthorized disclosures were made both verbally and via email. For relief, complainant seeks to inspect the legitimate educational interests.” Id. at p. 8. This reminder is consistent with the privacy protection afforded by FERPA (Prior consent to disclosure is not required when the disclosure is made to “other school officials, including teachers within the educational institution or local educational agency, who have been determined by such agency or institution to have legitimate educational interests, including the educational interests of the child for whom consent would otherwise be required.” 20 U.S.C. § 1232g[b][1][A]; see also 34 CFR § 99.31[a][1][i][A]) and Education Law § 2-d (each educational agency’s policy on data security and privacy “shall provide all protections afforded to parents and persons in parental relationships, or students where applicable, required under [FERPA]” Education Law § 2-d[5][d]).

Further, the Guidance also states that, “Schools should work closely with the student and family in devising an appropriate plan regarding the confidentiality of the student’s transgender status. In some cases, transgender students may feel more supported and safe if other students are aware that they are transgender. In these cases, school staff should work closely with the student, families, and other staff members on a plan to inform and educate the student’s peers.” See Guidance at p. 5.

Complainant asserts that the school failed to provide her with access to the student’s education records. In its response to the Chief Privacy Officer, the District included a chart describing the documents provided to complainant. However, the District does not provide evidence of complainant’s receipt of the documents, nor does complainant confirm that she has received the documentation. Education Law § 2-d requires each education agency to publish a bill of rights which states that parents have the right to inspect and review the contents of their child’s education records [Education Law § 2-d (3)(b)(2)]. The school has a Parents Bill of Rights that allows parents “the right to inspect and review the complete contents of their child’s educational record” (see

Therefore, the Office of the Chief Privacy Officer is requiring the District to send a hard copy set of the records to the complainant within thirty (30) days after receipt of this determination.

Complainant also states that the District disclosed the student’s PII to third party providers and school employees unnecessarily. However, the limited information provided in the complaint and investigation did not adequately describe all recipients of the PII and for what reason they received the PII. The Guidance, described above, emphasizes that in order to maintain compliance with FERPA, only school officials, which would include service providers who comply with the requirements of 34 CFR § 99.31(a)(1)(i), who have legitimate educational interests may receive PII from an education record. The Office of the Chief Privacy Officer therefore cautions the District to remain vigilant with its Education Law § 2-d and FERPA compliance by ensuring that only District officials who have legitimate educational interests are provided access to students' education records.

Finally, the nature of this complaint requires that the District be reminded to involve transgender and gender nonconforming students' parents in its process to the greatest extent permitted by the Guidance while maintaining the health and safety of these students.
